These Are My Glasses

These are my glasses
This is my book
I put on my glasses
And I open my book
I read, read, read,
And I look, look, look
Then I take off my glasses,
And close my book!

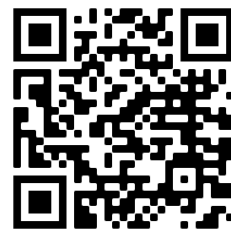

Grown-up Tip

Movement is essential to a child's brain development and fingerplays are no exception! Fingerplays, especially those that incorporate rhythms and rhymes, help children improve their hand strength and hand-eye coordination. Singing and chanting with motions also stimulates three different senses (sound, sight and touch) that make learning fun and memorable.
